

MUST NOT SIT IDLE

Our People Should Work to Controvert Any Calumnies Cast Against Our Navy Yard

Editor Herald:—
While the Boston Record admits that the Portsmouth Navy Yard is the naval station most favored by nature and one of the oldest, also the fact that the harbor never freezes over and that there is a depth of water much greater than any ship needs to the very entrance

New York and Boston are purely local and selfish. This issue cannot be made in good faith when the merits of the question are taken into consideration.
Enlarge the Boston yard and the one at Brooklyn is the cry of the short sighted interests of both places approved and seconded by Secretary Meyer and a certain society loving contingent among naval officers—not the patriotic, keen sighted majority of Uncle Sam's officers, but those who subserve the interests of their country to an opportunity to shine on the waxed ball room floors.
But, in the hue and cry for such enlargement, the enormous expense of such expansion at either Boston, or Brooklyn is carefully ignored. To add to either of these plants would

DEATH DUE TO ACCIDENT

Thomas J. Burns, the Well Known Barber, Found Dead This Morning

Thomas J. Burns, the well known barber, was found dead this Tuesday morning at his home on Fleet street and it believed that his death was due to accident, he having when he retired last night left the gas partially turned on. He was born in Manchester, England, April 27, 1864, the son of John J. and Margaret Burns.
His parents moved to Lawrence, Mass., when he was six months old and his early education was gained in the public schools of that city. He learned the barbers trade and conducted business in Lawrence for many years. He also conducted shops in Manchester, N. H., and Worcester, Mass.
While in Lawrence he was prominently identified with the democratic party and held the offices of councilman and alderman in the latter part of the 80's.
About four years ago he took up his residence in this city and while here made many friends. He married Miss Mary E. Sullivan of Lawrence, on April 25, 1886, who survives him, together with a daughter, Miss Letitia. An elder daughter, Mrs. John Dugan, died only two months ago. He was a member of Worcester Aerie, No. 203, F. O. B., and the the Barbers Union.
The body will be taken to Lawrence, Mass., on Thursday morning for services and burial.

OLD CONTRACTOR PASSES AWAY

Helped Build Old Eastern and Many Other Railroads

William H. Flynn, a retired railroad contractor, died at his home in South Berwick on Monday aged 62 years. He was widely known for his work throughout the country in the construction of railroads and no man in his day had a better knowledge of the same. He earned a reputation by his honest dealings with his fellow men and railroad corporations that would be hard to duplicate.
He constructed portions of the Pennsylvania railroad, the New York New Haven & Hartford, the Central railroad of New Jersey, the Boston & Maine, Maine Central, Bangor & Piscataquis, Massachusetts Central and the old Eastern railroad. He also built water works systems at Williamstown, Conn., and Lewiston, Me.
Mr. Flynn was a native of St. Andrews, N. B., but had resided at the family homestead, Lee's South Berwick for more than a half century.
In his town no man was more honored and respected and he did much to advance everything for the general good of the town and its people.
Every important position within the gift of the people he held with a credit to himself and the old town that he loved so well. His counsel and advice led many a man to a better standing in life and no appeal to him for charity ever went unheeded.
His many acquaintances, not alone in his home town, but everywhere he was known, considered it an honor to know him and an enemy was a stranger in his good life.
Besides a wife and one son Frank, a well known dentist at Dover, he leaves three sisters, Mrs. Margaret O'Donnell of Cambridge and the Misses Kate and Nellie Flynn of this city.

WORLD SERIES SCANDAL

Chicago, Oct. 23--Ban D. Johnson, president of the American league, and member of the National baseball commission who returned from New York yesterday are not pleased over the manner in which the tickets to the world's series were handled in New York. "It has been an unfortunate series, for besides the nasty weather, there's been a lot of scandal connected with the games," said Johnson.
"There's no chance, though for such a thing to put an end to the world's series, for there's too much interest in it and the players are getting so much money."
"However, the way the scalpers got control of the tickets in New York was scandalous. It was even worse than it was here in 1908."
"Had we gone through with our investigation at that time and put one or two men out of baseball the present ticket scandal would never have taken place."
"The scalpers in New York had all the tickets they wanted. You could buy any number of seats in one bunch. How they got them I cannot explain. There may be something important develop from the present scandal, but we have no time to take that up now."
Johnson will return to New York. All the latest popular music, 15c, at McIntosh's.

HAZED BEFORE YOUNG WOMEN

Stunts Imposed at Naval Academy
"Plebs" Compelled to Stand on Head and Wiggle Legs

Annapolis, Oct. 24.—Something entirely new in the history of hazing at the academy was written yesterday after chapel when a member of the second class required plebs to go through hazing stunts for the amusement of two young women who had been guests at the hop the evening before.

The matter came to the ears of members of the hazing class and they were indignant at the violation of the "code," and will force their classmates to resign if they can positively identify him. The plebs did not know their visitor but knew that he was a second classman on account of his service stripes.

The plebs were required to do "No 16" to stand on their heads and do the other physical exercises which were common some years ago, but which were thought to be things of the past. Both are exhausting if long continued.

In the first, the plebe stands on the toes and lowers and raises his body by spreading his knees and bringing them together. When he is compelled to stand on his head, he places his head and hands on the floor and straightens and lowers his legs repeatedly.

The women admired all of this immensely and the bold upper classmen that could compel such obedience were hugely admired. All the time the plebs were hollering over, but were compelled by the awe they felt for their seniors to obey. At the conclusion of the exhibition, one of them sought a member of the second class and told him of the experience.

The upper classman was highly indignant, and so were his classmates when they were told of the affair. Hazing they agreed, was a private matter between the upper and lower classmen and a necessary portion of the instruction of the latter.

To humiliate him by having him perform before an audience, particularly female audience, was ungentlemanly and in violation of the "code" so they started to find the guilty man. When they find him they say he must resign, or be sent to Court.

Members of American Lawn Tennis Team Going to Australia to Play For Davis Cup

New York, Oct. 24.—William A. Larned, the seven time lawn tennis champion, has so arranged his affairs that he will head the team which America will send to Australia in an effort to retain custody of the Davis cup. For some weeks past it had been feared that America would be represented in the matches at Christ Church, New Zealand, only by Maurice E. McLaughlin and Beals C. Wright, as Larned had made it known that business engagements would prevent his taking the trip. The three men, it is announced, will sail from Vancouver on Nov. 1 on the steamer Zealandia for the twenty-two day trip to New Zealand. Larned will captain the team and play in the singles. The selection of the other singles player will be made when the men arrive on Australian soil. The probability is, lawn tennis authorities said recently, that Wright and McLaughlin will play in the doubles match.

ASK FOR PROTECTION

An Escaped Inmate of the Insane Asylum is Causing Trouble

Worried by the reappearance of Ivan Jenness, 15 years old, an escaped inmate of the state hospital at Concord, his relatives have made application to the Portsmouth police for protection. As the town of Rye, where Jenness and his family lived, is not in the jurisdiction of this city, the applicants have been referred to the county protective department. Jenness was committed to the insane hospital about three months ago. Previous to his arrest he was employed by the Rye Iron Works. When officials of the state institution reported his escape it was assumed that he would immediately return to Rye, but it is said that he went to Boston, where he also has relatives. His first appearance in Rye came during the past week. His condition was said not to have been improved by his stay at Concord.

Jenness was the son of a former prosperous hotel proprietor at Rye Beach. The disposition of his father's money has always been in dispute. Attorney Perley M. Gardner of Exeter was appointed guardian of Jenness.

entail at the expenditure of millions, when the same could take place, at the yard "most favored by nature," as the record is forced to admit, for practically no expense for land values, the government already owning here many acres that it has not begun to utilize.

All representations of the Portsmouth Yard have been used for years in an attempt to do it injury. Yet its location and natural advantages as the site of the greatest naval station in the world are so much greater than any other location that it has been able to resist all the pressure brought against it by ignoramuses who never visited a United States port where it has not been necessary to lay out millions of dollars to make an approach for ordinary draft vessels and where it is not necessary for dredges to be kept continually at work to keep open a channel to the Navy Yard.

Neither Boston or Brooklyn are suitable sites for great navy yards and with constantly increasing size of the world's great warships, this will become more and more plainly apparent with the passage of years, while Portsmouth will come more and more into the foreground as the greatest site for this very reason.

The selfish people who are calling on the government to expend enormous sums of money at those two points, for the sole reason that they wish the revenue resulting from an increase in the force of Uncle Sam's workmen there and, in the case of certain naval officers, so that they can back in the limelight of society, are asking that the burden of unnecessary taxation be laid on every man, woman and child in the country in order that their selfish ends can be attained.

No business man, considering the welfare of his country can argue truthfully that the expenditure of huge sums of money for the enlargement of Boston and Brooklyn yards, would conduce to the benefit of the United States as a whole. No man who argues for expansion of the two yards mentioned at the cost of Portsmouth yard is sincere—or, if he is, he is blind to obvious truths.

Great harm has been done to Portsmouth yard in the past because of ignorance of its merits in certain sections of the country. Untruths have been written about it in various papers, because the writers were ignorant of what they were talking about and had taken the say-so of some prejudiced person.

Now is the time, when the hand of Secretary Meyer seems set against the yard, to begin a campaign to bring the truth to the attention of the country.

Portsmouth should not stand still and let its biggest asset be attacked without hitting back and hitting hard. Work should be begun and begun at once—to show to those living in the interior and in far remote sections that attacks on this yard are unjustified and are inspired by jealousy or selfishness.

The fact that New Hampshire has at Portsmouth the safest, most commodious harbor with an adequate depth of water anywhere on the Atlantic coast should be hammered into the minds of those who have been inclined to be skeptical because they did not know, that the government has here a wonderful natural site, which has hardly been a third utilized, that it has the most wonderful dock in the world, dug out of solid rock, that it has sites for half dozen more of of the same kind, only larger, that modern shops are here and plenty of ground for the erection of scores more, that there is a clear approach to the navy yard with a depth sufficient to accommodate battleships at the lowest tide, even if they grow to twice the present size and big enough to enable them to come up to the yard abreast, under their own steam, if necessary, should be brought to the attention of those interested in the welfare of the country as a whole and presented to them in a way so that he who runs may read.

Lovers of Portsmouth, and those interested in their own country, must not sit back idle in the time of crisis. They should be up and working to controvert any calumnies that are cast at the yard.

Let us all be truthful press agents for Portsmouth and the great yard of Uncle Sam.

REBELS ARE GAINING GROUND

Have Power Over Several Large Cities--Americans Make Appeal for Protection of Gunboats

Shanghai, China, Oct. 23.—The occupation by revolutionists of two more important southern cities, Changsha and Nanchang, was announced in dispatches which reached this city early today. The capture of these cities delivers into revolutionary hands the local Government of the two important provinces of Kiangsi and Hunan; thereby more than doubling the territory in which the rebels are masters.

Changsha, a city of 300,000 population, is the chief commercial center on the railroad between Hankow and Canton, and the seat of Yali College, the Chinese extension of Yale University. Changsha is 200 miles southwest of Hankow, while Nanchang has 100,000 inhabitants.

The fall of Changsha and Nanchang had been rumored here for a day or two. Today's advices definitely confirm that both cities are entirely in the hands of the revolutionaries. Four of China's 18 provinces are now regarded as under revolutionary influence—Szechuen, where the movement started; Hupoh, of which Wu-chang is the capital; Hunan and Kiangsi. The fall of Nanking, where the garrison is regarded as siding with the revolutionaries, would deliver to them the Vice-royal government of two more provinces, Kiangsu and Anhwei.

Entire Yangtze Valley Succumbing. The entire Yangtze Valley is gradually succumbing to the revolutionary insurrection. No uprising has yet been reported at Nanking, which is only 200 miles above Shanghai, but there is every reason to believe that the garrison there cannot be relied upon by the Imperial Government. Nanking is not only a great commercial center, but is also the most important military depot in Central China, and its fall would be the most severe blow which the government has yet received.

The Government is taking steps for defense, even in Shanghai. During the past few days there have been much activity around the arsenal.

The situation is regarded here as most alarming. It is generally admitted that unless the Government succeeds speedily in dealing a decisive blow to its adversaries, the revolution will spread of its own momentum over a great belt of territory across central China.

Refugees of all nationalities continue to flock into Shanghai from points up the Yangtze River. They all agree that while the general appearance of things is quiet, sympathy everywhere is with the revolutionists and widespread support is being given the agents of the new movement. Business is absolutely stagnant, even in the cities on the lower river, and the commercial repression in Shanghai is complete.

Americans Appeal for Gunboats.

A large number of Americans from various points have appealed to Consul General Amos P. Wilber here, asking for the protection of American gunboats for their cities. One of the appeals came from Consul Edward G. Baker at Ichang. Mr. Wilber said today that he was making an effort to secure additional vessels.

Up to the present time, however, as far as has been learned, no foreigner has suffered personal injury from their side.

Two American cruiser Albany will arrive here tomorrow. The New Orleans is now stationed at Nanking.

News from Hankow is greatly delayed, owing to the severance of the telegraph lines. The nearest point that can be reached by wire from Shanghai is Ningiang, 100 miles from Hankow. Thence dispatches are relayed by boat, a 19-hour trip.

The telegraph wires out of Hankow were first cut by the commander of the Government forces, who set up the Hankow end of the line in his camp, giving him control of all messages. The rebels quickly learned of this situation and took matters into their own hands by circling the Government camp and cutting the wires below, at a distance of 95 miles from Hankow. The wireless from Hankow is not working satisfactorily.

Quiet prevails here, but the financial and mercantile situation is grave. Native merchants refuse to accept delivery of cargoes that are arriving here almost daily from European and American ports. Foreign merchants are unable to meet their drafts and what trading is done is on a small margin and on a commission basis. Even the wealthy firms are unable to finance their business without the assistance of the banks, which are reluctant to come to their aid.

BIDDEFORD VERY "DRY"

Liquor Raids by Sheriff and Police Chief Stop Sales Seizure at B. & M. Station

Biddeford, Oct. 24.—Between raids by Sheriff Charles O. Emery and his deputies and Chief Thomas Stone and his police force, the city is as dry as it has not been for ten years. Monday afternoon Capt. Fred S. Dorle and Officer Edward S. Whittingham went to the Eastern Division station of the Boston & Maine railroad, where they seized six quarter-barrels of ale, seven cases of beer, six five-gallon kegs of whiskey and ten empty beer cases. All was carried to the "rum room" in the city building.

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

Children just love to take them.

BOSTON'S INDUS. TRIAL EXPOSITION

Boston is now holding the greatest industrial exposition in its history, one that from its objects and aims should interest every inhabitant of the New England States, as primarily it was designed to boom New England and show not only our own people, but the entire United States what was being accomplished in this section of the country. The manufacturers have given their earnest support with the result that never in the history of New England has such a comprehensive and diversified showing of its many industries been made. In many instances these exhibits are working or active exhibits, showing the method of making the goods that have added so much to New England's reputation. "New England Quality" and "New England Made" are the slogans of the exposition, and the result has amply repaid the Boston Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices this great exposition is held. Both press and public have endorsed it as being the most entertaining as well as instructive show ever held. The management realizes that the purely educational feature would not appeal to all, so have supplied so many interesting novelties, so many contrasting features, that there is something to please all. For instance along with the great display of the American Woolen Co. is the old fashioned hand spinning and weaving exhibits.

In the great agricultural department, with its wonderful up to date farm machinery, is also to be seen the ideal plow used by Daniel Webster on his Marshfield farm, as well as the gold plow that has been exhibited all over the world. In the agricultural department may also be seen the greatest display of vegetables ever exhibited, fine blooded horses, pigs, chickens, cows milked by electricity, the model dairy and farm, even to the elder mill, everything in regular order.

Probably every known commodity is to be seen in the main halls, all textile products, tool and wood working machinery, willow-ware, manufacture, a great printing plant, with its ten page daily paper, the exhibit of the United Shoe Machinery Co., many food products, drygoods of all classes, etc. This is only a very small part of the many things to be seen of interest.

Next week, the last one, an added interest will be given the great exposition, as in connection with it, will be held the great New England Fruit Show. This will be held in Horticultural Hall, as the great Mechanics Building is already full and overflowing. However, one ticket will admit to both buildings during the week.

The musical program is being rendered by the Salem Cadet Band who give two concerts daily, and in Exhibition Hall the popular Edna Francis Simmons' Orchestra will be heard.

Monkeys Are Fighters.

"Most persons will guess lions or tigers are the most dangerous animals to train," said an animal trainer, "but they're wrong. Give a lion one good licking and he'll remember it. He hits back only when his man is down or has his back turned, but a monkey will fight against any odds, and you never can tell when he'll hit back. Even a medium sized monkey can strike a blow that will reach through a coat, vest and two shirts, and he leaves a nasty wound. The most daring thing I ever did was to go into a monkey cage and take a baby from its mother. The ordinary house cat is the most stubborn animal under training, but the monkey is the most dangerous if you work the larger kinds."—New York Sun.

Mildly Censuring Him.

"My goodness!" she says, with a pretty scowl. "I think a girl would feel dreadfully foolish if she proposed to a man."

"I should think so, too," replies the dimpled youth. "But then I suppose there are some girls who are just simply compelled to do the proposing," she sighs.

After an hour's consideration of that remark he realizes what she really means.—Woman's World.

Practical.

"My good woman," said the social reformer, "your children seem to be slightly obstreperous. Have you any clearly defined theories about bringing up your little ones by scientific methods?"

"No, I haven't, wadum," answered the much tried mother as she firmly grasped a squirming child in one hand and her slipper in the other. "I'm bringing them up by hand."—Baltimore American.

A Terrible Storm.

The most violent storm that ever ravaged England occurred Nov. 26 and 27, 1703. The loss in London alone was $10,000,000. Eight thousand people were drowned in the floods. Twelve warships, with more than 1,800 men on board, were lost. Trees were uprooted—1,700 of them in Kent. Eddystone lighthouse was destroyed, and Winstanley, its contriver, was killed with several others.

The Good Time Coming.

Hop Sing is a Chinese laundryman with a cheerful though somewhat unusual philosophy. After bewailing the hard times and lack of business he added snuggly, "Bimeby everybody be rich, reddy, rich, bimeby." "How's that?" "Alla poor people got no money; no can eat. Then alla poor people die."—Argonaut.

Carried to Extremes.

Chinese Revolutionists, Successful In Southern Provinces, May Proceed Against the Capital.

Encouraged by their victories in the southern provinces, where the rebellion had its inception, the Chinese revolutionists threaten to invade the empire's capital. The government has raised troops to protect the approaches to Peking. There are reports that the infant emperor has been taken for safety to Tientsin by his uncle, Prince Tuan, a brother of the prince regent.

TOO MUCH CHARITY.
There is infinitely more of so-called charity today than ought to be useful in a self-determining democracy. Too much of charity is a vain attempt to remedy the ravages wrought by injustice. No charity reports can annul the fact that charity at best but makes good the inadequate which has been brought about by inefficiency of income. Charity does not and cannot save in the rarest instances, do more than temporarily restore the social equilibrium that has been disturbed. —Habit Wise.

WOULD SEEM MOST FITTING

There is a strong sentiment in Somerville to name the new school house now in course of construction for the late Sam Walter Foss, a graduate of our own local high school, who later attained fame and whose career was eagerly watched by many of his old time associates. This mark of respect to his memory would seem most fitting as not only was Mr. Foss probably the most widely known citizen of Somerville, but in getting books out of the public library and into the homes of the people he probably did more for the cause of popular education than anybody who has ever been formally connected with the school department of that city.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

An Americanized Navy
From time to time certain European "authorities" on modern naval conditions relieve their chests of criticisms regarding the personnel of the American navy. This ignorant pessimism is based on the allegation that the American naval forces are mainly recruited from aliens who are devoid of any pretense of patriotism. These Rip Van Winkles of the sea may find themselves awake when they scan the latest statistics of the American navy. No less than 95 per cent of the 47,000 men in the service as sailors are Americans. Consequently, the task of weeding out aliens which is being undertaken under direction of Secretary Meyer is not a formidable one. —The Philadelphia Press.

Business Situation.

Notwithstanding the various untoward influences and pessimistic views regarding the business situation the general volume of trade is gradually increasing. Some would have it that this is merely a seasonal development usual at this time of year but the mercantile agencies report that the aggregate amount of business transacted is greater than that which was handled at this time last year and in this fact there is much cause for encouragement. That there are unquestionably two sides to the situation is patent. From the constructive point of view with particular reference to conditions in the United States the various elements which combine to lend encouragement to business are easy money, fairly well sustained railroad earnings, a steady decrease in the number of idle freight cars, an increase in exports and a decrease in imports, large bank clearings, an abatement of labor troubles and a record breaking cotton crop. Conspicuous among the influences which tend to hamper trade are political trust prosecutions, further tariff adjustments by congress, which meets soon, and the high cost of living.

The abundance of money which has been rapidly accumulating is a most prominent factor just at present. The crop moving season has made comparatively small demands upon New York for finances and when money from the West begins to come back to the metropolis the accumulation of idle funds will be greater than ever. That this money eventually must seek investment there can be no doubt. It is of no account unless it work for its owners. Just how to employ it to advantage is the question which greatly concerns capitalists at present. The stock market does not seem to offer much of an attraction to investors, the impression being that a lower level of prices will be seen before the next presidential election. The bond market looks somewhat more inviting but trading even in these securities for some time past has been very quiet. The best opinion seems to be that new bond issues, if the security is high class and offers a good yield, will be more apt to tempt some of this idle money from the banks than low interest-bearing bonds that have been in the market for a long time. Investors are anxious to find a safe place for their money but are demanding a higher return than formerly and corporations' thinking of putting out new issues may as well make up their mind that this condition must be met if the flotation is to be a success.

Conditions in other countries are somewhat less favorable. Improvement in some portions of Europe is reported while a glutting down is noted elsewhere. The complaint of high cost of living is almost universal. Just about now this question is most acute in France, where various remedies have been proposed to improve the situation. The prices of commodities have advanced everywhere. Economists are advanced everywhere. Economists are putting together to relieve popular emotional for the best effort to solve this all without anxiety there are a hundred globs? FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Gleanings From Files of Portsmouth Chronicle

Activity at the Navy Yard.—Probably but few of your readers, save those who are employed upon the stocks, have any idea of the amount of the work performed there; you will therefore allow me to state a few facts to show that there is one other place besides the Charlestown, Brooklyn and Washington yards, where Uncle Samuel can get his work done "with neatness and despatch."

Besides the Kearsarge just set afloat, there are three vessels on the stocks, the Ossipee, nearly ready to launch, and the Sebago and Mahaska, whose planking has commenced, and they will also soon be afloat. The two former are screw propelled, and the latter side-wheel steamers, drawing about six feet of water. We learn that the Keel of another steamer is to be laid on the ways of the Ossipee, as soon as the latter is launched. A large gang of riggers, caulkers, painters and laborers are employed upon the Portsmouth and Constellation, both of which will be soon ready for service.

In the gun carriage department, we were astonished at the amount of work performed in this new branch of government work. We were informed by Joseph Williams, Esq., gentlemanly overseer, that fifty gun-carriages have been made, thirty-four of which were for 9-inch guns, ten for 12-inch, and five for 32-pounders. Sixteen of the 9-inch gun-carriages were sent to St. Louis and eighteen to Fortress Monroe. Besides these, there are ninety in process of completion, seventy of which are for 12-inch guns, and the rest are howitzer carriages. There are also twelve pivot gun-carriages nearly finished, which will cost $3,000 each.

There are about 1,700 workmen now employed on the yard, and this force will probably not be diminished yet awhile to any great extent.

Fine ripe raspberries, second crop, were gathered in the field of J. Johnson, Esq., in this city, Oct. 23.

Ripe raspberries were also picked in the open fields last Saturday. Dandelions and clover are in bloom and oil prove that this is a "remarkable fall."

The Penalty for Kidnapping

The sentencing of a couple of kidnapers in Chicago to life imprisonment will be generally regarded with approval by those who would seek to make the punishment comparable in severity with the baseness of the crime. We are not sure that capital punishment would not be sanctioned in many cases. Certainly it would be approved by more than would think life imprisonment too severe. For kidnapping is rightly held in abhorrence as one of the three or four most heinous and detestable crimes. It sometimes involves murder, the victim perishing through fright or lack of accustomed care, and when it does not it still inflicts upon relatives, and upon the community, a loss which would cause a greater death itself would cause. It never has the excuse or pretext of passion or impulse, and anything but the most cold-blooded and deliberate sordidness or revenge; usually the former. For those guilty of such a crime there is scant room for mercy. —New York Tribune.

The Poorest Paid Profession.

Church members all over the United States should read with the most careful consideration dispatches that are just come from three cities. One from Chicago and tells how the Rev. Henry M. McDowell has severed his connection with a Congregational church because certain members objected to his working as an express messenger at $18 a week to augment his official salary. He had found it impossible to keep his family on his pastoral pay, and held that he had excellent scriptural authority for occupying himself honorably in a manner not to interfere with his clerical duties. From Cincinnati, Ohio, comes the story of the resignation of Rev. W. F. Gowdy, pastor of the Presbyterian church, who refused to accept a cut of $100 in his pay. Finally Rev. J. Reitz, rector for twenty-four years continuously of a Lutheran church at Allentown, Pa., resigns because during that time he has never received more than half his salary while his congregation owed him an additional $100 advanced by him to maintain a litigation for the church.

These cases bring pointedly to mind the fact that preaching is a poorly paid profession. High standards are set for its members. They are required to dress neatly, to educate their families, to be charitable, to set a good example in every way, and yet the average minister of the gospel in this country is paid less than an artisan. He has an educational investment representing years of study and a considerable expense, and standing or privations and sufferings on the part of himself and his family. He is charged with the weightiest of all human responsibilities, the care of souls. He must stand before his people as a shining light of good behavior, of freedom from all temptation, of benevolence. And to maintain himself and those dependent upon him he is paid a pittance which if offered to a member of a workingmen's union would cause an instant strike.

In some cities large salaries are paid to the clergy. Even extravagant stipends are offered to bring noted preachers from one congregation to another. But these are the rare exceptions. For every clergyman who is paid enough to enable him to live without anxiety there are a hundred who are not. Following is from a speech in 1833 by Daniel Webster in the United States senate:

"There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations, and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. In a country of unfettered liberty they clamor against oppression. In a country of perfect equality they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else they read the air shouling agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel they would teach the laborer he is but an oppressive slave."

SUPERIOR COURT

Jury Cases Start With Kendall vs. Kendall--Uncontested Divorce Cases Heard.

Superior Court came in on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the petit jury reported at that time. Chief Justice Wallace, who is presiding, at once called the new docket, and several cases were marked for trial at this term.

County Solicitor Gupitt not pressed the indictment against George Fitzgerald for unlawfully delivering liquor to a habitual drunkard.

The first jury case was called and a jury empaneled to hear the case of Kendall vs. Kendall. This is an action brought by George Kendall against Frederick Kendall, both of Chester. The allegation is that the plaintiff, who lived in Iowa, came to Chester and took care of his brother, on the agreement that he would give him the farm. That he broke this agreement. The defendant's claim was that the agreement was not carried out and that the plaintiff was cruel and assaulted his brother. The case was unfinished when court adjourned for the night. Eastman, Scammon and Gardner for plaintiff; Page, Bartlett and Mitchell for the defendant.

An uncontested divorce libel brought by Mrs. William H. Hardy of Seabrook, who claimed that her husband deserted her twenty-two years ago, was heard.

It can be stated with perfect truth that a lump of sugar may be turned into diamonds. Not all the substance of the sugar, of course, will enter into the composition of the gem, but only the carbon that it contains. Sugar consists of carbon united with oxygen and hydrogen. The carbon can be easily separated out, and in certain experiments for the production of diamonds this sugar carbon has been employed. The diamonds so produced, of course, very small and despicable of commercial value, but still they are real diamonds, and the chemical result achieved would be no greater intrinsically if they were as large as the Kohinoor. The hope has often been held out that an improvement in the process of manufacturing diamonds may be effected whereby the necessity of dissolving the carbon in molten iron may be dispensed with, and the required combination of great pressure with great heat may be brought about by some such operation as squeezing the carbon between red hot metal plates.

Vegetables in Tudors' Time.

What did people eat before they had the potato as a staple article of diet? Apparently they had most of the vegetables that we have now. Of Londoners in the time of the Tudors, Sir Walter Besant tells us that they ate lettuce as a separate dish before the meat, used turnip leaves as a salad and roasted the turnip itself in wood ashes. Horseradish and carrots were known to them, and capers were served boiled in oil or vinegar. Cucumbers, radishes, parsnips and cabbages also figured at the Tudor meal table, for which, by the way, they boiled their oysters and spread their beef with honey. It would be fun in these days to eat—or refuse—a Tudor meal.

A Whistler Story.

When Whistler had not yet reached the height of his fame a millionaire called at his studio and wanted his wife's portrait done.

"How much will you charge me, Mr. Whistler," he said, "for a lifesize picture of the madam?"

"My price," said Whistler, "will be $2500."

The millionaire took up his hat and stick.

"Why," he snorted, turning to go, "you expect to be paid for your work as if you had been dead four or five hundred years!"

Very Much So.

BANKER WALSH IS DEAD

Chicago, Oct. 24.—John R. Walsh, formerly a banker in this city, who was recently paroled from the Federal Prison at Leavenworth, Kan., died today.

Mr. Walsh had been in bed most of the time since his arrival here from Leavenworth. He had been attended constantly by physicians. Interim reports of Mr. Walsh's failing health during his incarceration has been denied at the penitentiary.

On his release it was plain that he had aged, and he gave up plans for resumption of his position as a financial leader and took to his bed.

Mr. Walsh was 74 years old. Death came just nine days after his release on parole from the Federal Penitentiary, where he had been sent on charges of misappropriating the funds of the bank to the use of other enterprises.

Mr. Walsh's health failed soon after his entrance to the penitentiary. An immediate movement to obtain his release on parole was begun by members of his family.

After his release Mr. Walsh was thought to have been still further weakened by a long, cold automobile ride from the prison to Kansas City. When he arrived home on the morning of Oct. 15 he was so ill that he went to bed at once and remained there until his death. He was surrounded by all the members of his family when he died.

He is survived by one widow, three daughters, Mrs. L. Blake Baldwin, Mrs. Orville Dubock and Miss Mary Walsh, and his two sons, John and Richard.

FOURTEEN CADILLACS IN THE GLIDDEN TOUR.

Eleven of them are 1912 Cars, and All Are Privately Owned and Driven by Owners.

When the Glidden tourists headed south from New York on October 14, a fleet of no less than fourteen Cadillac cars shot by the starter on the first day of the long journey to Jacksonville, Fla.

Never before in any Glidden tour, has one make of car been so well represented. On one tour, several years ago, three cars from the same factory were among the contestants, but the records do not show a greater number than that.

Every one of the Cadillacs in this tour is a privately owned machine, and each is being driven by its owner. These men are all southerners, and all but one of them are from Jacksonville. The single exception is a Fitzgerald (Ga.) man.

Eleven of the Cadillacs are 1912 cars which the owners never saw until they were delivered to them in New York just before the start of the tour. A number of Jacksonville men shipped their cars to New York by sea in order to make the tour; but the eleven Cadillac owners ordered new cars, to be shipped from the factory to New York in time to enable them to start with the other contestants.

This is the first time the Glidden tour has invaded the eastern section of the south; and southern motorists are giving it their heartiest support, realizing that it means much to the South. It has to be supported by generous donations from the common Atlantic coast states in the way of food and money. The enthusiasm with which southerners generally are grounds the rest of us have good reason to believe.

"ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE."

MISERS OF KNOWLEDGE

Not long ago the Scientific American published an editorial pointing out the errors of the press as a favorite amusement to men of science, who would probably be still more amused by the charge that they themselves are in the main responsible for those very errors. More recently the same scientific journal brings out another editorial article now bidding scientific men for writing so little on what is loosely known as "popular science."

It would seem that the two charges might properly be brought together against the modern scientific worker. Assuredly it is not only natural but necessary for the scientist to withdraw from the everyday world about him. His delicate experiments, his patient researches can be prosecuted only in the solitude of the study. It must be granted to him, too, that no other man can be so easily and so utterly misunderstood and misapprehended. His highly abstruse studies take him to a great distance from the average intelligences that make up the workaday world. All honor to the patient toiler who denies himself the easy pleasures of the average man, and pursues a difficult and valuable work in loneliness.

But the honor ceases when the impressionable student becomes too absorbed in his work when he forgets the world's legitimate claim to his knowledge, and refuses either to impart it himself or to trust it to the ordinary agents of dissemination, the reporter. From the lonely toiler, working without reward save the pursuit of truth, the scientist descends to be a selfish miser of knowledge. And unfortunately this attitude of misery, silence seems to have become general among scientists. It has become the first clause in their code of ethics.

None is so well qualified to press this charge as the journalist. It is proper enough or the scientist to be touchy as to his "standing." He is no scientist at all if he is not, first, besides standing, the scientist has obligations, which he is too prone to forget. Science is not a paying pursuit. It has to be supported by generous donations from the common Atlantic coast states in the way of food and money. The enthusiasm with which southerners generally are grounds the rest of us have good reason to believe.

WHAT DOVER THINKS.

Dover high school boys will want to take good care that they do not get disqualified in their studies before the coming game with Portsmouth high. If they win that game, they will have to go along some. See what Portsmouth did to Rochester high Saturday 49 to 0! The best Dover could do to the Rochester was 38 to 7. Portsmouth boys are now claiming title to a chuck on the league championship. It is up to Dover to demonstrate that it is not advisable for them to count their chickens before they are hatched. The defeat of Portsmouth would be the teams for the championship. Otherwise Portsmouth would win it.—Dover Democrat.

STILL UNSATISFIED.

It is surprising to the ordinary person that there are some people who still think we could have a little more rain. Owners of ice ponds claim that the ponds are far from being filled and some farmers claim that their wells are not to their normal height. There is one thing certain, and that is that there is more water in the wells and ponds this fall than for the past three years. Last year at this time the ponds were dry, where as now all have good supply.

The report from Manchester is that the Merrimack river is at the highest point for over a year, and from up the state comes the report of a gradual rise in all of the lakes.

A MENACE TO OIL SHIPS.

The Deadly Vapor That Stays After the Petroleum Is Gone.

The explosion of vessels carrying petroleum frequently occurs, and this is generally caused not by the cargoes of oil which they contain, but by the inflammable vapor which is left behind after the huge tanks of the ships have been emptied.

It is difficult to remove all the oil that adheres to the sides of the tank, and the evaporation of the oil film left in them after they have been pumped out takes place with great rapidity. Moreover, the vapor thus formed mingles readily with the air and is capable of rendering more than 2,000 times its own volume of the former inflammable. A spark may thus cause a fearful explosion in the hold of a ship that is apparently empty.

A film of petroleum spreading over the surface of the water has been known to produce enough of this volatile and dangerous vapor to cause a conflagration, by which a number of ships lying in a harbor have been suddenly enveloped in roaring flames and by a stroke of magic.

In some parts of the world, as at Baku, the center of the Russian petroleum trade, a film of oil continually covers the water for a considerable distance from shore, and warnings of the danger there have more than once been given.—Exchange.

HUMAN BOATS.

Swimmers Who Used to Rig Themselves With Sails.

When you throw a piece of wood into the water and watch how nicely it floats, has it never occurred to you to make yourself into a boat and to go floating about as easily and coolly as a real boat does?

This may sound very queer, but to one who has confidence in himself it is quite practicable, as was proved twenty years ago by a Dr. Reinde of Manchester. This gentleman, a noted long distance swimmer, was often to be seen floating about the river Mersey for hours at a time. He used to fasten a strong belt round his waist and attach to it a light mast and sail, which he could fur or unfurl as he lay comfortably on his back, and no doubt it was very enjoyable.

This was carried a step further by another noted swimmer, Captain Boyton, who used to think nothing of sailing up and down the English channel with a sail fixed to his feet. Once, indeed, he actually crossed the channel from Dover to Calais, but on this occasion he used a paddle with which to steer himself.—Pearson's Weekly.

Men For All Jobs.

Is there a single position that nobody will take? Not so long since the position of public executioner fell vacant, but to spite of the grim occupation, there were a very considerable number of applicants. Prison wardens suffer from no blank spaces in their forces, and there is always a sufficient supply of recruits to meet any demand.

Work in the sewers is not nearly so bad as it is imagined to be; but, however unpalatable the tasks, there are always beginners ready for employment. Scavengers we can always get, and each lowly but necessary calling is well filled.

Turning to dangerous vocations, there is no shortage of divers or steepjackers. Dynamite and gunpowder mills do not have to seek far for hands.

Is there a single job carrying some sort of remuneration for which there are no applicants?—London Answers.

Durability of Steel.

It has been shown that nearly all the failures of steel occur very early in its history. If a plate or bar of mild steel lasts for a year in service it may be trusted to last for many years. The most injurious thing is continual bending backward and forward, as in what is called the "pumping" of a boiler end. As one authority puts it, steel has a somewhat "indefinite youth," but "in middle age it is trustworthy and in old age beyond reproach." In regard to corrosion there is difference of opinion, some holding that steel corrodes more readily than iron.

Too Late to Change.

"A man can no more change his reputation than he can change his face or his arms," said a senator at a banquet.

"There was once a wicked old millionaire, who took his pastor aside and said:

"I'm going to retire, Dr. Thirdly. I'm going to devote the remainder of my life to doing good."

"Dr. Thirdly, an outspoken man, retorted:

"Do you mean John H. Good, the wealthy farmer, or young Sam Good, the Socialist millionaire?"—Exchange.

Spoke From Experience.

Willie Good—In, our teacher says that "collect" and "congregate" mean the same thing. Rev. Mr. Good—Well, you tell your teacher, my boy, that you have information that there is considerable difference between a congregation and a collection.—Liverpool Mercury.

A Monumental Majority.

If one could get the vote of those who feel worse the day after a holiday than they did the day before he probably could be elected.—Aitchison Globe.

Men grumble because God puts thorns on roses. Would it not be better to thank God that He has put roses on thorns?—Abon.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO NAVY YARD EMPLOYEES

Very Valuable Dog

One of the most valuable dogs seen in this section of the country for many years is owned by boatswain Thomas James of the U. S. S. Southery. The canine known as Towler, is an English bull from the kennels of Richard Crocker the ex-Tammany hall chief. The animal carries quite a pedigree being a direct descendant of the noted blue ribbon, Chief Rodney Stone, Ethelmore, Chief Persen-ton, Chief Bandmaster and Bouquet. Towler is admired by every dog fancier that gets their eye on him and claim he has the lading pedigree or any dog in America. He is only a month old and is sure to take many ribbons when of age and exhibited at the leading dog shows of the country.

Where is the Money Coming From?

The steamer Hornet was recently seized on the charge of violating the neutrality laws of the United States and was placed in the custody of the commanding officers of the U. S. S. Wheeling at Puerto Cortez, Honduras. It was found necessary to do some work, particularly some painting, on the Hornet in order to keep it in a reasonable state of preservation. A force of forty men was placed on the boat scraping, scaling and chipping where necessary. The question of the payment of the expenses connected with this work, amounting to $165 arose and the comptroller of the treasury was called on to determine from what fund it could be paid. He holds that there is no fund available for this purpose, unless it is "Contingent, Navy" and in order to come within that appropriation, it will be necessary for the secretary of the navy to authorize the expenditure as being actually necessary for the preservation of the vessel.

I WONDER

Why the wireless for the gunboat Petrel cannot be put on at this navy yard, her home port as well as New York?
Why one of the old time black face productions by the P. A. C. would not make a hit?
Why Mac doesn't put the boy scouts after that porker?
What's the next new station on the Dover branch?
Why the Gratlan and Emmet clubs don't give us some of that football here on Thanksgiving?
Why the musical talent of this city don't put on a light opera the coming winter?
Why that husky Greek and the Tennessee strong man don't pull off that wrestling bout?
If the Paducah has shook the hoodoo?
What's up for politics in ward five?
If the "axe" train on the Boston & Maine has been sidetracked?
If that resident at the Creek district has found scales large enough to weigh that big fish he hooked up on Sunday.

WANT A SYNAGOGUE

Hebrews Start Subscription for Purchase of Methodist Church Building

Local Hebrews are busily engaged in making a general collection of funds for the purchase of a new synagogue. If sufficient funds are collected and a satisfactory place can be made, the Hebrews will purchase the building of the First Methodist church on State street. About $1200 was subscribed at the first meeting. Goodman Brothers, a clothing firm, subscribed $50 last night, and Morris Port of the American Clothing company, gave an equal amount. Joseph Cohen who presided over the meeting, subscribed $40, Hyman, Philip and Jacob Cohen each subscribed $30, and Maurice Silverman, Samuel Shapiro, Jacob Brown, Abraham Shapiro and Hyman Goldman each pledged to pay $25 to the cause.

Joseph Cohen, Morris Port, Abraham Shapiro, Samuel Shapiro, Nathan Levine and David Levi were appointed a committee to confer with a committee of Methodists designated to negotiate the sale. J. Howard Grover, John True, Davis and James W. Schurman, who represent the Methodists, appeared in the synagogue to night with a proposition to submit.

It is understood that the Methodists ask $8000 for the brick church building. The Hebrews are willing to pay but $6500. It was said that more than half that sum is now held by the treasurer of the congregation and that any bank in the city willing to negotiate a loan for the balance.

The congregation is now meeting in the second story of a brick building on State street near the junction with Pleasant street. The quarters are too small and inconvenient. When the school department abandoned the old Exchange building on State street the Hebrews made offer to purchase it from the city, but the city failed to act, as it assumed that it could give the building away to the Army and Navy Association. As neither the city nor the association moved the Hebrews made application for the purchase of the Methodist church.

At the conferences in the church the Methodists have appointed committees to consider the remodeling of the church building, which is inadequate to the demands of the Methodists. If the building is sold to the Hebrews the Methodists will erect a church building on a sizable tract of land on Miller avenue.
